KNOW:

What do you need to know to be a successful President? Think broadly in terms of interpersonal, conceptual, strategic, & technical things you need to know

Some things that you need to know are, first you need to know how to be a leader. You need to be able to lead your chapter in what ever endeavor (event, fundraising, program) you are doing. As a president, you also need to know how to be a follower. Sometimes your ideas won't always be the best, but someone else in your organization may have a better idea that can be used. A president also needs to know the characteristics of his fellow members. Knowing that will allow the president to see who can be placed in which position or given the proper role.

-By-laws, History of chpt., school policy, what each position entails, budget, future thoughts, greek friendly,

BE:

Who do you need to be in order to be a successful President? What values & commitments are important for Presidents?

You need to be determined and not easily broken as a president. Determination is key when things begin to hold you down or push you back in what ever you are trying to do. It allows you to break through the roadblocks and barriers.

Not being easily broken is key for when an event, program etc, is not as successful as it should have been. Some of your fellow members may get broken down but if you keep your composure, it will rub off on the rest of the members. A president needs to also be committed to his organization and his/her E-board.

-trustworthy, understanding, delegator, role model, set example, future position holders, understand org. and responsibility,

DO:

What actions are required to be a successful President? Think both BIG picture and small detail in terms of influencing, operating, & improving.

Some actions that are required for a president are being uplifting, and mentally strong. He/she also needs to follow up on all that needs to be done.

Build leaders, ~~commit~~ communicate w/ Greek life office, have a good attitude (so ppl can follow you) Service, communicate w/ your own org.

I need to know firstly what is considered a "successful president." From there on I need to know how will I be able to achieve and be that person — the steps, the process, networking etc need to know how to stay on top of all members & their actions.

Time management skills.

① knowing yourself & objectives of your orga chapter.

*Have relationship with administration.

In order to be a successful president I need to be very open and trustworthy for the other members of KAP, the greek life community & the FAU community.
Be confident.
The successful president should be the face of the chapter therefore I need to set good example for the members.

Make sure e-board is engaged.

~~Make~~ set a plan & set your goals for the year. Also your expectations for your chapter. Then find a way as to how we can work towards this goal.

Keep motivated
Positive reinforcement
*Be accountable.

I need to be a very wise decision maker & make decisions best for my chapter because @ the end of the day, I'm 'renting' the chapter. Be passionate!

DO:

To be a successful president, I should use the situational leadership model to successfully determine what each chapter member falls under. I also should intervene when possible and not be a bystander. Asking for help and opinions. Set a goal & write it down. Motivate and inspire members. Do what is right and not what is "popular."

To be a successful president, one should have great ~~communication~~ Communication - Skills. Being able to communicate ideas to the chapter whenever necessary. One should know how to listen well because most of the chapters problems will come your way. Be able to take criticism. Know how to use your resources to help further the mission of your fraternity. A president should know how to keep good relations with not only other organizations, but with the internal fraternity/sorority members and with officers on campus.

- How to work off of momentum from prev. semester

A president should be honest with his members at all times. Although some may not like his decisions, their president must do what is best for the chapter.

He should be the voice of reason behind each decision the chapter makes.

The president should hold the utmost respect for his org. and should convey their loyalty and respect with the best in conduct.

A president should, above all, be committed to their chapter, and put the chapters overall best interest above his/her personal responsibilities whenever possible.
