You must know everything that includes being president what roles you must play, tasks that have to be done, rules & regulations, paperwork & responsibilities. You must also know the other positions so you can make sure they are getting it done & help them if needed. Know all your members.	I think you must have strong values both personally and with your chapter B/C what you value defines who you are. I think you should be committed & all into your organization & school. You have to ^{be} committed to something in order to make a difference. Stay humble, unbiased hold yourself to a higher standard.	ACTIONS speak louder than words. You have to make goals for yourself & chapter & take steps in order to achieve your goals & make your organization successful. Be accountable DO MORE be more.

What do you need to know to be a successful President? Think broadly in terms of interpersonal, conceptual, strategic, & technical things you need to know

You need to know how to build & lay down a strong foundation. Should know how to accomplish all chapter tasks and goals. Know what leadership style you should use on different people. Never be a bystander. Have effective time management skills and hold people accountable. Know our standards and values. Know temptations of a chapter president. Know how to accept everyone & admit when you're wrong.

BE:

Who do you need to be in order to be a successful President? What values & commitments are important for Presidents?

You need to be passionate, encourage others & your self to be above average. Be a role model. Be a good decision maker, organized, efficient, how to find the positive in the negative in all situations.

DO:

What actions are required to be a successful President? Think both BIG picture and small detail in terms of influencing, operating, & improving.

Do everything you say your going to do. Use the situational leadership model when addressing everyone, take steps and achieve my goals for my chapter and executive council. Don't let my ego intervene with my chapters success. Learn from others mistakes. Live out our standards & values.
